LEARNING RECORD

In September, Mariam started a computer course. On the first day, she learned to open a document. Last week, she saved her first report.

She has already learned to create folders and name files clearly. She has not learned to attach a file to an email yet. She wants to practice this before applying for a volunteer role.

Her next goal has three steps. First, she will watch a short demonstration. Next, she will send a practice message with a file attached. Finally, she will ask a partner to check that the file opens.

Mariam writes, "I have made progress, but I still need help. I practiced for twenty minutes yesterday. I enjoy learning with a partner because we can check each other's work."

Original Ilmiya practice text. Scenarios and research examples are fictional.
